a young man twenty years of age, having eulisted without his father's consent and against his express directions, in Capt. Shelton SturGIS's Company, of Zanesville, and having been mattered into the United States assying for mustered into the United States service for three years at Camp Chase, on the application of his father, Nicholas Brady, H. B. [Special to Commercial.] ALBERY, Probate Judge of this county, issued a writ of habeas corpus directed to Col. SCAM-MON, commanding at Camp Chase, to produce burg, July 11th, says the regiments were under the body of young Brady before him. In compliance with the writ, Col. Scammon appeared, and responded to the writ through his counsel, Col. Stanley Matthews. Capt. Reasey argued the case for the father. The counsel for the respondent cited and relied upon the case of the Commonwealth v. Gamble, 11 Sergt. & Rawle, 93. On Saturday, July 13, Judge Albert venture and composition or despected to leave that evening, as all the tents had been struck. We make the following extracts from the Judge's opinion:

It is claimed by the respondent that this minor is liable to military service and should not be discharged, because the Government is supreme, and the rights of the father being defined and bestowed by the Government, it may, and in this case has assumed its lawful prerogative or right to the services of this young man. And having the right of eminent domain, not only in the soil, but in the bone and muscle of the country, the Government has done only what it had a right to do, and has asserted and declared that right in a proper and lawful manner.

The proposition of the learned counsel that the General Government ought and must be sustained, is not only the sentiment of every true patriot, but is sound as a legal proposition; and I concur fully with the counsel that in order to maintain the Constitution and preserve the Government, it may exercise that right of eminent domain, and compel any of its citizens. But until the emergency does arise, and the Government acting under a law for the purpose, does demand the involuntary services of its citizens, no infringement of the right of a father to the custody and services of his minor child would, in my judgment, be legal; because the Government and month of the right of a father to the custody and services of his minor child would, in my judgment, be legal; because the Government means to protect, not violate the rights or fearners.

I will not say that Congress may not declare the collistment of a minor to be lawful and valid, but they have not done so in relation to the army of the United States. A case may occur which will induce them to do so. When the great principles of liberty and self-government are in danger of destruction by the invasion of a foreign toe, by insurrection or rebellion, perhaps they will. But until Congress does interfere, we must take the laws as we find it, and regard the claims which the laws of God, of nature, of the State and of the United States give the father to the services and custody of his child, until he arrives at the age of majority.

If, however, the parent or guardian gives consent, either directly or by implication, the collistment is lawful. In such cases the Court would remand the minor to the custody of the military officers.
